RE: JB UPDATE

There was an article in the NY Post this morning stating that JB had been arrested due to allegedly "luring" a minor into performing sex acts when she was 15. There is no mention of Scientology. James has not been taking any calls from anyone that he doesn't know and will keep this in at this time.

JB has a call into the NY attorney, Charles Claymen, but has not spoken with him as of yet.

Last night JB wrote a note on what actually occurred with [REDACTED] and gave this to the Chaplain CCI who visited him briefly late last night after he called into Pres CC Int and was very caved in about what he had done.

His write up states: one night he was at dinner with [REDACTED] and her boyfriend and she had made "physical contact" with him (rubbing her leg against his under the table). At some point later he asked her what she had been thinking and she said "go home and fuck you." On another occasion around the same time, they went to his apartment to change their clothes and go to a play. She ended up coming onto him, taking her clothes off in front of him until she was in her underwear and talking openly about losing her virginity at 14, and making out with girls. They ended up on his bed watching TV and she performed oral sex on him. She then asked if they were going to have intercourse to which he said no and that what had happened was already inappropriate.

He also wrote up that concerning [REDACTED] phone call of 6 weeks ago, that she had called to "express her sadness" and ask him if he really had cared for her. She said that she had seen a psychologist who told her that he dumped her because "she wasn't young and 15 anymore". JB says he told her that she said she was 16. [REDACTED] then brought up the oral sex and he said: "well, I certainly didn't expect that to happen." He then stated talking about how he knew he messed up her life and asked how he could now help now but she then instantly hung up on him.

JB said that the only people he told what really happened are his ex-2D, Dana Stackpole (who has been R-Factored not to talk to anyone about it) and the Chaplain CC Int. He told the Chaplain that he wrote a statement at the police station but he didn't put all the data and didn't give the specifics as to what actually happened. He said that he didn't even tell Don Wager what actually happened.

JB expressed that he is concerned about any damage this may create to the Church and is willing to do anything needed to avoid that, and he is concerned about his Bridge and wanted a study and ethics program to handle this. The Chaplain told him that he would be getting a program and to start with The State of Man Congress and the Clean Hands Congress. He was appreciative of the help and said he would do this.

Further strings are being pulled at CCI to ensure that we don't have any other similar cycles like this. Anything found will be reported along with the handlings being done.
